

Web Developer (in Training)

You want

- A testing ground for your design skills and coding enthusiasm
- A fun way to gain some real work experience
- To join a team that favors a round of table soccer and a beer at work over suits and hierarchy

You are

- Studying design, computer science or have a keen personal interest in web development
- Equipped with some HTML and CSS knowledge
- Bothered by things that just don't look good
- Entrepreneurial by nature and can work independently

At Mixtable you will

- Work with our design and IT staff on implementing all the new features we dream up together
- Help to draw up fancy new web ideas
- Write the code that makes everything look cool
- Spend so many nights out that you forget whether you are actually working or just having fun
- Be part of a very exciting phase in a young enterprise – ready to conquer Europe

Mixtable matches two groups of friends – 3 girls, 3 guys – and brings them together for fun nights out. Mixtable is a young Munich-based business with support from Harvard University and the Strascheg Center for Entrepreneurship.

If this sounds all just a tiny bit like you, send us an e-mail now to jobs@mixtable.com with your key information (no need for long essays – we like those too, just not during the week). Or just give us a ring anytime if you want to find out more (+49 89 9545 7015 0).
